FAMILY MEMORIES - DAY 1

Today's activity:

Talk to your parents about your family and work together to make a family tree. There are lots of templates available on our website.

Talk to your families about favourite memories, trips, moments from when you were a baby and before were alive!

Did you know that part of an Archivist's job is to help to keep family memories. At the Lennox and Addington County Museum, we have an archivist that can help you research your family history and maybe even find pictures, letters, and records from local families. The study of family history is called genealogy.

FAMILY MEMORIES - DAY 2

Today's activity:

With physical distancing it is a challenge to feel connected to those we love. We are lucky to have technology that can help to keep us together.

Today, make a list of family or friends you would like to learn more about their lives.

Write up the questions you would like to ask them too.

Do you have photo albums at home? Ask the people in your house to show you photos or memorabilia from their childhood. This is a fun way for your family to share stories and for you to learn about the lives of those you love.

Who was your best friend? What was your first job? What was your favorite subject in school? What was your favourite job? What was your favourite book?

FAMILY MEMORIES - DAY 3

Today's activity:

Dedicate time to call three or more members of your family or family friends. Using the questions you wrote up, talk to your family members and let conversations grow.

Today is exciting! You will be learning new things about the people you are closest to. This will be meaningful to you and those you are calling.

Making connections...

While you are talking to your family members, maybe you will be able to make connections to your own personal story. Maybe Grandpa was a goalie just like you, or your Uncle Sam loved to do Archery. Or perhaps, your grandma loves to tell jokes just like you. Or your great grandparents lived on a farm just like your family does.

FAMILY MEMORIES - DAY 4

Today's activity:

With the stories you have learned from your family or friends, find something you would like to research more. For example, if you were most interested in your family member who owned a farm, or played a sport, use that as inspiration to learn more.

The L&A County Museum has two websites where you can do local research at www.CountyMuseum.ca

E-History Project where you can learn about artifacts from our collection.

FAMILY MEMORIES - DAY 5

Today's activity:

Using the stories you heard from your family members, photos and artifacts that you saw, and the information you found online present it in a creative way.

You can create a newspaper, journal story, painting, poem etc. to tell your story in the way that you would like to tell it. If you have access to technology you can also use book creator.

We would love to hear from you while you are working on your project and once you have finished.

You can send pictures of your projects to us on facebook @CountyMuseum, or if you have stories you would like to share you can send them to <https://lennox-addington.on.ca/la-stories>. Congratulations on finishing another week of Museum Kids @ Home!
